

BERLIN REPORTED IN STATE OF PANIC

Kharkov, German Base, Menaced by Russian Armies

Reds Enter Ukraine In Terrific Drive

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 7 (AP)—Russian armies breaking into the Ukraine on a forty-three-mile front outflanked the big German base of Kharkov yesterday by capturing Zolochiv, twenty-five miles to the northwest, in a continuing summer campaign that already has cost the Germans 120,000 killed and 12,418 prisoners.

Gains up to thirty-seven miles were scored in the smash west of Belgorod which cut the Kharkov-Bryansk railway at Zolochiv, and the Russians also drove onward through Orel farther north in the surge toward Bryansk, said a special victory bulletin.

In the southeast other Russian units were reported on the move in the Donets basin, capturing several German-held heights southwest of Voroshilovgrad. This indicated a general Soviet offensive aimed at hurling the Germans far back to the Dnieper river.

Kill 2,000 Germans
The Russians killed 2,000 Germans during the day in the drive that toppled Zolochiv and straddled the enemy's communication lines above Kharkov, the midnight communique said.

This seizure posed a pincer threat to the great industrial center because the Germans said another Russian army was massed for action near Chuguev, twenty-four miles southeast of Kharkov.

Soviet bombers pounded both Kharkov and Bryansk ahead of the Red armies that had taken Orel and Belgorod on Thursday.

Take 150 Settlements
The advance in three days from north of Belgorod had swept through that city, enveloped 150 settlements and driven ahead fifteen to thirty-seven miles, a special communique broadcast from Moscow and recorded by the Soviet Monitor said.

The drive carried into the Ukraine north of Kharkov and lent credence to earlier Moscow reports that the whole German front in Russia was threatened with collapse and that the Nazis might be forced back to the Dnieper, 270 miles west of Belgorod.

German Hopes Dashed
The hope of the Germans and their satellites for favorable outcome of their summer operations have suffered a complete fiasco, the Russian announcement said.

The Red army has "created more favorable conditions for development of active offensive operations of our Allies on the continent of Europe."

Germans Expect To Lose Homes

Shocked Citizens Show Indifference

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Aug. 6 (AP)—The smell of death pervaded the heavily bombed German cities, and their inhabitants, suffering from a raid psychosis, are now indifferent about their property, expecting it to "go up in smoke" with the next attack, a man who has just ended an extensive journey in the Reich said here tonight.

He gave this summary of findings on his tour:

Dusseldorf "Terrible Sight"
Dusseldorf, the first bombed city he saw, was a "terrible sight" two days after being attacked. Thousands of workers still were busy clearing up wreckage. The city was without electricity, gas and water.

He had reserved a hotel room but the hotel was gone.

Characteristic odor of decay cities, the penetrating odor of dried cities, the nauseous vapors from burst sewers overhung Dusseldorf.

See Many Wounded
Also a grim picture in all cities was the great number of veterans bearing wounds and the marks of two Russian winters—many faces without noses, heads without ears and men with stumps for legs. Useless to the army, these men now form clean-up squads.

Goering Inspects Ruins of Hamburg

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—A DNB report recorded by United States government monitors said today that Reichsmarshal Herman Goering arrived in Berlin Thursday from Adolf Hitler's headquarters and subsequently flew to Hamburg to inspect air raid damage.

"After detailed inspection of air raid damage in the town," the German broadcast said, "the discussed further necessary measures with Reich Lieutenant Gauleiter Kaufmann."

Happy Americans Celebrate First Anniversary of Solomons Campaign

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 7 (Saturday). (P)—Jubilant American troops celebrated the first anniversary of their offensive in the Solomons today after the capture of the important Japanese air base at Munda on New Georgia island.

The fall of the Central Solomons airdrome on Friday was announced in a special communique by General MacArthur's headquarters just before last midnight.

It was a year ago today that American marines swarmed onto Guadalcanal to capture the air field there in just two days from the surprised Japanese.

Hard Battle for Munda
American soldiers took thirty-two days to occupy the Munda base but the Japanese were more prepared for an attack. There is still enemy resistance on New Georgia Island around Bairoko harbor, ten miles north of Munda, but the conquest of the island should be much quicker than the time taken to subdue Japanese on Guadalcanal. Although the air strip on Guadalcanal, which was later named Henderson field, was taken in two days, enemy resistance on the island was not overcome until six months later during last February. Since then that Southern Solomons island has grown in importance as an Allied base.

Planes Softened Munda
Airplanes operating from Henderson field have played a leading part in the offensive which opened on June 30 against the Central Solomons. They supported the first landings on Rendova island near New Georgia and then softened Munda defenses with repeated bombings.

The communique announcing the fall of Munda said that 1,671 Japanese dead had already been counted. American losses in the struggle for the strategic base were not announced.

Americans Gain In Sharpest of Sicily Battles

Capture Gagliano On Northern Coast

By REELMAN MORIN
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6 (AP)—American soldiers have pushed forward two to three miles on Sicily's North coast, it was announced today, and captured Gagliano, twenty-two miles inland, as Allied forces sought to block the enemy's western escape road around Mt. Etna.

Fighting described as the "most savage" in the campaign raged at Troina on the central front where the United States Seventh Army assaulted the main mountain fortress screening withdrawal of the Axis to a new line northeast of the great volcano.

Gagliano is southwest of Troina, behind a line from Troina to CanicattidellaGiulia.

Battle Nearing Climax
Flying Fortresses—heavy artillery of the air—battered at Messina to disrupt evacuation of German troops, indicating that the battle for Sicily was nearing its climax.

Americans on the North coast, strongly supported by sea and air bombardments, and British vanguards on the east both were fighting about fifty miles from Messina. Other British Eighth Army units were beating northwest around Mt. Etna, from Paterno toward Adrano.

Canadians and British in a central push are making "steady progress" toward Adrano astride the Mt. Etna base road, today's Allied communique announced. Axis resistance here continued strong.

Thus Adrano, a communications bottleneck, was threatened from the west and southeast.

Troina is a main shield for withdrawal of Axis forces from the south and central sectors of the bridgehead following the fall of Catania.

Most Savage Fighting
United States troops have won footholds outside the mountain-top town, and an Allied officer who saw the opening stages of this battle described it as "a major military operation" marked by "undoubtedly the most savage fighting which has yet developed in Sicily."

The Germans have thrown every type of weapon into defense of Troina, using mortars abundantly to carpet surrounding hills and valleys with shells.

American artillery helped the advance of doughboys up the steep rocky slopes to win positions in the hills near Troina after crack combat teams had been unable to smash down the town's defenses.

The desperate defense of the town was regarded by officers here as a rearguard action to hold open the gate for Axis troops pulling out from the southeast area.

Americans Chase Japanese Troops Into the Jungle

Annihilate Fleeing Enemies in Swamps

By C. YATES McDANIEL
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Saturday, Aug. 7 (AP)—The United States jungle fighters who captured the Munda air base and crushed all organized resistance of the Japanese now have chased fleeing remnants into nearby mangrove swamps where they are being annihilated.

The bloody mopping up operations were related in a communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur issued today on the first anniversary of the American offensive in the Solomons.

The jungle troops pushed north and northeast of yesterday's bomb and shell battered scene of victory to hunt down what few Japanese have not been slain.

Japanese Losses Heavy
Meager reports from the South Pacific indicate that the 1,671 enemy dead mentioned in a special communique recording the fall of Munda, on New Georgia, may represent only a partial count of the enemy losses inflicted across the airdrome behind the withering fire of tanks and flame throwers.

General MacArthur, commanding Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific forces on the "complete victory" said it reflected great credit on all components—ground, naval and air.

Attack Rekata Bay
While mopping up went forward at Munda, war planes of the navy and the army's Thirteenth air force ranged northwest and northeast of there to shoot down seven of thirty Zeros over Buin-Paia, destroy a troop-laden barge off Vella Lavella island and unload sixty-five tons of bombs on the Japanese floating base at Rekata bay.

Rekata bay long has been used by the Japanese as a seaplane base protected by ground batteries which often throw up a barrage which raiding American airmen have described as "intense." Today's communique said that all anti-aircraft batteries in the bombed area were silenced.

Harry Hopkins Soon To Leave White House
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Harry Hopkins is planning to move out of the White House this fall.

The special assistant to President Roosevelt will take his family into a private house he has purchased in the Georgetown section of Washington.

Hopkins told a reporter that congressional critics have been howling too much about his living at the White House since 1939, and anyway his health is better. In recent years, associates explained, Hopkins' health would not have permitted him to run from a private home to the White House every time the president wanted to consult him.

Americans Shoot Down German Plane
REYKJAVIK, ICELAND, Aug. 6 (AP)—First Lt. Richard M. Holly of Ft. Ord, Calif., and William E. Butler of Kenil, N. C., shot down a big Focke-Wulf into the sea yesterday off Northern Icelandic waters. Seven crew members of the German plane were rescued from a rubber dinghy by Royal Navy craft.

Pope Asks Public Prayers for Peace
LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Swiss radio reported today in a Vatican City dispatch that Pope Pius XII had asked the papal secretary of state, Luigi Cardinal Maglioni, to arrange that public prayers for peace be said in all Roman Catholic churches.

Smashing of Hamburg, War's First Example of Complete Air Attacks
By WILLIAM F. FRYE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The smashing of Hamburg, in the view of American experts, is the war's first example of the complete use of air power, the pattern of the devastation to be extended to other German cities.

It was not, as has been suggested in some quarters, a "terror" operation, nor was it simply a ruthless laboratory test.

On the contrary, it was an attack on a prime military target—the nest and center of German submarine production—and fortuitous circumstances made it the first completely successful strategic bombing operation.

Here, for the first time, daylight precision bombing and night area bombing were teamed to perfection, with enough planes to keep the operation moving day after day, and with weather which allowed the United States Eighth Air Force and the Royal Air Force to carry the attack through to completion—the absolute smashing of a city the size of Philadelphia, the greatest port of Continental Europe, and a key point in the communications system which is vital to Germany's prosecution of the war.

The Flying Fortresses of the Eighth Air Force picked off the vital centers, the factories, power houses, key junctions, while the RAF moved in at night and leveled the city.

War Man Power Commission Offers Plan To Provide Seasonal Workers

By CHARLES MOLONEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The War Man Power Commission is attempting to put over a program for interstate movement of seasonally-needed workers that will end complaints from some states that they are being raided to get labor in other states.

Governors of the four states in the WMC's region four, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, have approved application of the program to meet peak season needs of canneries in their areas, Regional Director Leo R. Werts said today.

Other Governors Contacted
The WMC hopes its other regional offices will get similar endorsements from governors by showing that the arrangements will be of mutual benefit to all states and harmful to none.

Keystone of the program is a promise that no workers will be taken from one state for another unless it is certain they can be spared, at least temporarily, and that steps will be taken to return the workers after the urgent need for them elsewhere has passed.

Canneries Come First
Immediate application of the program to canneries and other food processors in region four was explained by Werts on the ground that they are now entering their peak season and have an acute labor shortage that is threatening food production for the nation. He said, however, the plan is highly adaptable to seasonal farm labor requirements.

WMC national headquarters today got a protest from the governor of Florida against movement of 438 workers from that state to work for a food processing plant in New Jersey, but officials said this transaction was unsanctioned by the WMC and apparently contrary to its program.

Plane Production Lag Alarms OWM
Byrnes Says Survey Is Well under Way
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Concerned that airplane production goals may not be met, the Office of War Mobilization is heading up a survey by government production and man power agencies of the aircraft industry's difficulty in maintaining needed working forces.

Bernard Baruch, special adviser to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, said today that the survey has been underway for several weeks. He emphasized that "it is entirely a question of man power."

Baruch did not go into details of the problem. Managers of some airplane plants, however, have expressed concern over losses of workers both to other war plants and to the armed forces.

Planes or Soldiers?
Robert E. Gross, president of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, told a House committee this week that the government must decide "whether airplanes or soldiers are needed from aircraft plants." The committee, investigating the effect of the draft on war plants, has been holding hearings on the West coast.

In a temporary answer to the question posed by Gross, National Selective Service headquarters authorized a sixty-day stay of induction for West coast aircraft workers. A more permanent answer may come from Byrnes after completion of the present survey.

Discuss Labor Problem
Baruch said the labor problem in the aircraft industry was brought up at a meeting of the War Mobilization Advisory committee, and subsequently was presented to "a number of people, including WPB."

Christmas Soldier Mail Plans Announced
BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Postmaster Neal A. Sibley announced today that the weeks between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15 have been designated for the mailing of Christmas parcels to United States army men stationed overseas.

For the navy, marine and coast guard personnel, the mailing period will extend from Sept. 15 to Nov. 1, Sibley added.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Hoopes told police that a youth snatched her purse, containing $500, as she was walking home from work today.

The police report quoted her as saying the young purse-snatcher drove up to the curb in an automobile, grabbed her pocketbook and sped away before she could note the car's license number.

Mass Stampede From City May Start Any Day

200,000 Casualties In Hamburg Attacks

By JAMES KING
LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 7 (AP)—German authorities were reported today frantically trying "to control a mass stampede" from panic-stricken Berlin where bomb-shocked Hamburg refugees have spread horror stories snapping the already frayed nerves of Berliners expecting imminent RAF mass air attacks.

Spanish correspondents hinted that non-military developments of unusual import were going on in Berlin, and Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels acknowledged a "partial evacuation" of the capital because of fears of attacks on the devastating Hamburg scale.

Strikes Reported Brewing
Strikes and other troubles also were reported brewing in Germany at a time of sagging morale caused by German reverses in the air and afield.

Reuters said reports were circulating "in German circles at Istanbul, Turkey" that the Germans were preparing to proclaim Berlin an open city and evacuate the ministries and other services to Dresden, Leipzig, Munich and Prague.

Reuters, British news agency, quoted arrivals in Zurich from Berlin as reporting that thousands of refugees from bomb-smashed Hamburg were spreading tales in Berlin of fantastic casualties in the Allied raids, and that these persons have been arrested in feverish efforts to slow the growing panic.

RAF Drops Warnings
Swedish dispatches at the same time related that the RAF yesterday had showered leaflets over the Reich capital, warning the people that Berlin would serve as a sequel to the fate of Hamburg, which has become the world's most-bombed city recently. In the recent week-long series of air attacks on Hamburg, 200,000 casualties were suffered, it has been estimated.

The inhabitants of other German cities, suffering from an air raid psychosis, have become indifferent about their property, expecting it to "go up in smoke" with the next attack, a man who journeyed extensively in the Reich said last night in an Associated Press dispatch from the German frontier.

Workmen Leave Jobs
(A CBS correspondent at Bern, Switzerland, quoted the Nazi newspaper in Bern, Das Volk, as reporting a wave of strikes in German war plants where "the workers refused to return to their benches even after they were offered additional food rations. . . . The benches now have been occupied by troops of the Gestapo.")

During the past week Spanish correspondents in Berlin have all ended their dispatches with mysterious references to news they could report if Nazi censorship permitted. For example, a dispatch to Informations in Madrid today ended: "Obliged by circumstances to limit ourselves to military events, we must leave for another day subjects by no means less interesting."

By tonight, evacuees were reported streaming from Berlin, obviously envisioning the ghastly spectre of a smoldering Hamburg and faced by the candid warning of Hitler's propaganda boss, Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, that the German capital was to be next on the doom-list of Allied air might.

Rail Heads Meet Union Officials
Discuss Demands For Wage Boosts
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Chiefs of fifteen non-operating railroad unions and railroad management officials held two inconclusive meetings today on the union's wage proposals and agreed to reconvene again tomorrow.

Neither side would discuss developments, but the unions were reported to have asked for a contract increasing wages eight cents an hour as recommended by an emergency board. Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson set aside the board's recommendation on the grounds it violated the government's anti-inflation policy. The union representatives, however, are confident they can get government approval if management goes along.

Overtime pay after forty hours also is understood to have been under discussion. Railroad employees are on a minimum forty-eight-hour week and some, such as the telegraphers, work fifty-six hours straight time.

Union officials have approved a strike ballot but decided not to issue it pending their conferences with the company officials.

Collyer Predicts Huge Rubber Surplus
SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 6 (AP)—A huge postwar rubber surplus was forecast tonight by the president of the B. F. Goodrich Company.

In an address prepared for broadcast over WHY, John L. Collyer declared the abundant supply, if the cost is low, will open up new agricultural and industrial uses.

State Hospitals Refuse Patients
BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP)—The state has been compelled to refuse admission of new patients to its mental institutions for the last four days because of a shortage of help, Dr. George H. Preston, commissioner of mental hygiene, announced today.

Preston said that since last Monday, five cases in the counties and four in Baltimore city have been refused admission. In each case, the patient was in need of immediate hospitalization, he asserted.

"The overcrowding and shortage of help in the hospitals has reached such proportions that the admission of any more patients at this time would only result in none of the patients receiving any care, and might prove very dangerous as well."

"The escape of twelve patients from Springfield on Monday points out one of the dangers, since the plotting of their escape was made possible by inadequate supervision resulting from the desperate shortage of help at that hospital."

"And that is only one of the dangers," Dr. Preston continued. "There is also the danger of accidents to patients who are only partially able to take care of themselves."

17 Known Dead In Flash Flood
SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 6 (AP)—Searchers came upon the bodies of two youthful victims in the receding flood waters of central West Virginia today, bringing the toll of dead to seventeen while four others were still missing in the stricken four-county area.

The body of Willard Nelson, 10, was found along the banks of Island creek, near his home at Girta, Ritchie county. That of his eight-year-old sister, Edna, was discovered on a sandbar in Hughes river, near the mouth of Island creek.

Two other children of the Nelson family perished in the sudden flood which struck early yesterday morning, but their bodies were found last night. Their father, Floyd Nelson, is among the missing.

Baltimore Twins Dance for Troops
AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE (AP)—Two Baltimore brothers, Pvt. William and Wilbur Baron, nearly stopped the show with their tap-dancing when they appeared in a musical comedy version of "Brother Rat" recently at this base.

The Baron twins, almost identical in appearance, also shared one speaking part—and it was up to the audience to guess who was appearing on the stage at that moment.

The twins danced in shows and nightclubs for several years before joining the army. Both are graduates of Forest Park high school of Baltimore.

270,594 Gel Liquor Permits in West Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 6 (AP)—A total of 270,594 West Virginians signed up for liquor rationing during the three-weeks registration period ended July 31, the Liquor Control commission announced, and the number was so close to estimates that coupon values will remain unchanged at present. In fixing the August allotment of one quart of hard liquor or four-fifths of a gallon of wine per person, the commission anticipated a registration of about 300,000 and "hoped it would be less" so that available stocks would be sufficient to meet every coupon holder's demand. Additional registration is scheduled to start August 16 for members of the armed services and civilians who did not have both their Nos. 2 and 3 federal ration books for identification during the initial signing up period.

A Postwar Job Mistake That Needs Correction

POINT IS MADE, and it is impossible to escape its logic, that the mere provision of a governmental largesse as a cushion to aid the men of the fighting services to return to normal employment when the war ends is not the real answer. The thing to do is to see that jobs are provided for the returning men, which are what they want above everything else.

It seems inescapable that these jobs, or at least the overwhelming proportion of them, will have to be provided by private business and industry. Government cannot supply them in sufficient number to meet the situation else the country will lapse into the depression status of "made work" with a lot of it costly and superfluous.

If the jobs must, of necessity, be provided by private industry in order to have an adequate cushion for the great transition, private industry must be bulwarked through practical postwar planning to enable it to furnish them. Here any further attempt at socialization of enterprise will prove disastrous, in view of the enormous centralized bureaucracy that has been built up and the unhappy experience already suffered under it.

The federal government should make definite plans now for enabling industry and business to cope with the situation. Obviously it cannot meet it unless it is prepared to do so. Industry of all kinds should be allowed to build up the reserves necessary for that purpose. Unfortunately the federal government has not seen fit to allow industry to set aside such reserves. In normal times, the costs of maintenance are regarded as normal costs of doing business and, accordingly, are not taxed. No aid in this respect has as yet been agreed upon by the government. The funds needed to provide the costs of transition and expansion are now being taxed out of existence as excess profits.

This is a mistake that should be corrected without further delay.

Gen. Badoglio Misses the Point

"WE WANT TO NEGOTIATE but we don't want to capitulate," is the wail emanating from the Italian press and radio. Badoglio seems to have missed the point that he is not in a position to negotiate, and has no alternative to capitulation. Italy must surrender unconditionally or suffer continued attacks which will grow in intensity with each day until Italy is a mass of smoking ruins.

A defeated nation, Italy must accept whatever terms the United Nations desire to give it, or accept the consequences. Badoglio still seems to think that his country is a fighting force, and greater error was never made by a head of state. In attempting to continue in authoritarian ways, he ignores the realities of the situation.

There is too much talk of Italy's "honor," but the word is being defined according to the old Fascist-Nazi rules which are now outworn. When the Italian government comes to the realization that honor is only to be regained by ceasing to war against the democracies and by returning to the paths of international honesty and decency, it will be given assistance in its ascent to a civilized status.

Unless Italy submits quickly to the victors, it will suffer as Germany is now suffering from rains of bombs which will obliterate its cities, and from invasion which will take control of its territory.

The Axis Suffers Serious Shortages

AS the war continues to cut down Axis-held territory and to grind up Axis manpower it is becoming increasingly evident that the aggressor nations have encountered fatal shortages. Speaking broadly, the European Axis shortage is one chiefly of morale and the Japanese shortage is principally one of weapons.

Weakness of Axis morale in Europe can no longer be doubted. It has appeared in Italian ranks all along the line of fighting from Ethiopia and Spain, Albania and Greece, to Egypt and finally the northeastern tip of Sicily. When the Italian peninsula is penetrated, preference of the Italian people to fight wars under balconies will be paramount in that nation's collapse.

Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria have become convinced that they are on the wrong side. Conquered European nations continue to resist conscription of workers, according to reports. Morale of the German people is not subject to accurate appraisal, but their capacity for collapsing before overwhelming odds is well known.

In the Pacific, although major campaigns have not yet been initiated by the Allies, the Japanese already are showing unmistakable signs of running out of air equipment. At every air encounter with the Americans the Japs lose heavily. That points to a time when the Allies will dominate the air over the Pacific. A similar trend is apparent in Japan's naval forces, with the Jap command indicating strong dislike for major sea engagements.

Both of these weaknesses are crucial for the enemy. They will be written sooner or later into total Axis defeat. Faced by the growing power and purpose of the Allies either low morale or insufficient weapons will wreck the enemy.

A Strategy Based On Long-Range Results

IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC it is evident that attrition is being given every chance to get in its full licks. American forces are closing in on the Jap base at Munda a few yards at a time. No doubt forces could be thrown into that limited area that would speedily overwhelm the Japs, but at considerable cost in American lives.

The Allies prefer to keep edging in on the Japs at vital spots with ground forces supported by heavy naval and air strength. Then as the defending enemy risks his ships and planes, or attempts to bring in reinforcements, America's fighters land on them in a manner resembling the unloosing of the wrath of mankind.

In objective gained, it seems like a slow process. But attrition is a strategy that is based on long range results. It is pointed in this instance to a time when the Japs, except in ground forces, will be whittled down far below Allied power. Then the enemy will be unable to defend himself in the air or at sea. And as Italy has proved, a nation that can not bring sea and air power to bear in its defense is in a hopeless position in this war.

There is nothing more certain than this: That the final phases of the war in the Pacific will flash by at amazing speed. The stage is being set for that in the currently slow campaigns.

It's Still Handy In a Pinch

OUR SAILOR BOYS are adequately maintaining the traditional American sense of humor according to the various "house organs" published on the larger ships of the navy.

For an example, there is a quizzical paragraph from the U. S. S. Concord Minute Men:

"If a man runs after money, he's a money-mad; if he keeps it, he's a capitalist; if he spends it, he's a playboy; if he doesn't get it, he's a ne'er-do-well; if he doesn't try to get it, he lacks ambition; and if he accumulates it after a lifetime of hard work, people call him a fool who never got anything out of life."

So, one may just as well quit worrying about money these days, which attitude would fit in very well with the New Deal philosophy; still and all, it is rather handy to have around within reach, especially in these times of runaway prices resulting from the war situation and perhaps some other things.

One of the commentators says that there will be no new automobiles until two years after the war, which is an effective reminder that none of the cars now in use is getting any younger.

At the Front

By MARSHALL MASLIN

We were scared. At last, after all the excitement and drudgery of being in a strange country we were going up to the Front—up to the Line—up to the Trenches.

We laughed. We made jokes. Underneath, however, we were solemn and wondering and scared. How did we know what the Front would be like? We'd heard a lot about it. We'd read stories, we'd talked to men who had been there, we'd heard the rumble of guns in the night, we'd seen the flashes on the horizon. But we didn't KNOW. Everything had been second-hand and third-hand until now—and now we were actually going "up."

How would we act? That's what we wondered about most. Would we lose our heads? Would we show the yellow streak? Would we be able to Do Our Stuff? . . . It was raining. The roads were yellow and slippery. The fields were brown. The trees were losing their leaves. It wouldn't be much fun to die on a day like this. You can't feel heroic in a drizzle. . . . We kept on going—toward the Front.

Aid when we got there, what did we find? We found a dirty little village with people walking around in it. We found a barn in which we were to live. We had to set up a kitchen and open our blanket rolls and check on the water in the village well and scare up some wood for a fire and do all the chores we had always done. We'd come up, prepared and resolved to die bravely—and we found that in the meantime it was necessary to continue with the details of living.

That was something of a shock. Somehow it took the wind out of us and brought us to our senses. So THIS was the Front? This was how you had to live while you were waiting to die? Well, it wasn't so bad, it WAS something of a disappointment. We'd have to live about this in order to make it seem one-tenth as bad as it actually was. Here we're at the Front and it was just another JOB for us to do. The joke was on us.

I've thought of that day a thousand times since 1917. How we went up to the front expecting to meet Power and Glory and Sudden Death immediately and encountered, instead the Mud and the Drizzle and the Necessary Chores of Living. How we were going to be Heroes and found that first we had to be Workmen. How we dreamed and were scared, and then had to collect wood and make up our beds. And how quickly we grew used to everything up there at the Front and never once spoke of Sacrifice or Heroism or Patriotism. . . . It's a comfort to realize that you're not required to be a Hero all the time, that all life asks of you is that you settle down and Do Your Job.

Status of Ships Sent to Britain Causes Question

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Does President Roosevelt intend to make a present of 2,000,000 tons of American shipping to Great Britain?

If not, then it is to be feared that the hopes of the British shipping interests have been unduly stimulated in the announcement made in the House of Commons by the British prime minister.

Mr. Churchill made a special point of explaining the new arrangement whereby from 150 to 200 of our newly constructed merchant ships are to go under the British flag during the next several months. It is true the prime minister speaks of the ships being used in "wartime duty" and says that his discussions with President Roosevelt were confined "purely to the war period leaving the arrangement suitable to a peacetime settlement to be discussed at a future date."

Mr. Churchill adds that "there is no financial arrangement" but he refers to the President's attitude as a "generous arrangement."

But do the British people, and especially the shipping interests, know that the United States Maritime Commission in its public statement of July 27, referring to the same transaction, stated no less than three times that "title will remain in the United States government?"

Technically Correct

Technically the Maritime Commission's statement is correct. Title today is in the United States government, but has the President agreed with Mr. Churchill to let title pass after the war to the British government, which, in turn, will give the ships over to the British merchant marine to be used in competition with the American merchant marine?

Has the President the constitutional right to give away the property of the United States or to make an arrangement looking toward the giving away of any property after the war is ended? This question will be answered in the negative by members of Congress. It is important to bring this matter into the open now lest our British friends be misled into thinking they have been awarded a gift of 2,000,000 tons of shipping.

The British prime minister, it will be noted, has been under rather severe pressure lately to keep his eye on the post-war shipping problem as it affects England. Lord Rotherwick, chairman of the Clan Line Steamers Ltd., and associated companies, in an article published as recently as July 1 in a leading shipping journal in Great Britain writes:

Concerned over Replacements

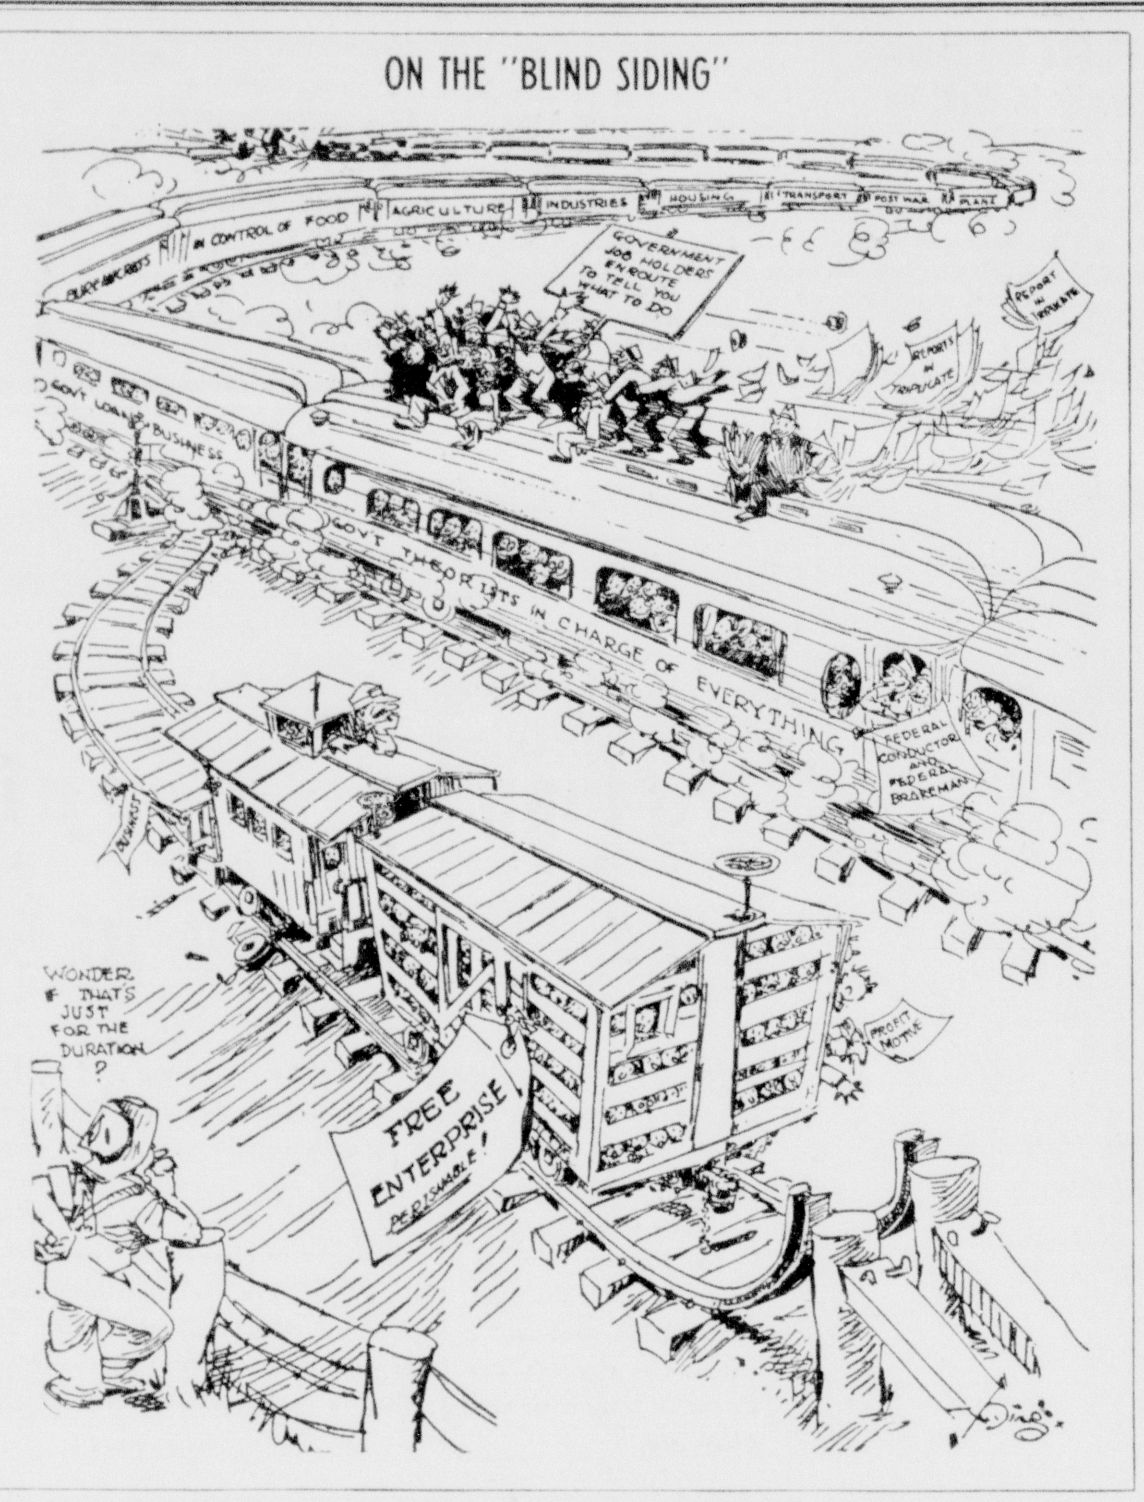

"The situation is fraught with great difficulty and is causing ship owners in this country considerable concern as the losses of British shipping have, as is well known, been considerable and comparatively little has been possible by way of replacement. On the other hand, the United States of America will end the war with an enormous increase of tonnage over that flying their flag at the outbreak of war. It is feared that, as a consequence of this disparity, the position of British ship owners may not be adequately safeguarded by our government, notwithstanding that the shipping industry is one of paramount importance for the economic existence of Britain."

Then Lord Rotherwick goes on to use almost the same language and argument that appears in the Roosevelt-Churchill correspondence, to the effect that the United States had by agreement concentrated on merchant vessels while the British shipyards had concentrated on combat vessels. One might almost draw the inference that the British

Young New Dealers Are Reported Back Of Move To Undermine Secretary Hull

By MARK SULLIVAN

Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement this week—that he would be glad to defend his conduct of his office before any tribunal—is the coming toward a head of a condition that has long existed more or less under the surface. The condition is somewhere between open criticism of Mr. Hull and a quiet undermining of him.

The open critics of Mr. Hull include different types of persons and groups with widely varying motives, many of them unimpeachable. But it is the quiet underminers who mainly have brought about the present situation. These include many in the New Deal or affiliated with it who are called young liberals—though "young" may in many cases be interpreted as meaning immaturity of experience rather than youth in terms of years. The New Dealers who work against Mr. Hull do not include President Roosevelt. On the issue which most causes the present situation, Mr. Roosevelt stands firmly behind his secretary of state. Indeed not behind him but alongside him or in front of him. The policy which causes the attack is held as strongly by the president as by Mr. Hull.

War Effort Uppermost

This policy, briefly, is that the war should be fought with one present purpose only, to win it in the shortest possible time with the least possible loss of life. Critics of this policy demand that at every step in the conduct of the war an ideological purpose must be kept in mind and must be paramount.

The difference is illustrated by Italy. President Roosevelt placed the negotiations looking to surrender and peace in the hands of our military commander, Gen. Eisenhower. The president approved negotiating with King Victor Emanuel and Gen. Badoglio, because they were the only Italian government in sight that anybody could deal with. The president took the view that ideological matters should wait. What individuals and what groups and what school of thought should compose the permanent future government of Italy must wait until after the fighting is over.

Plan Is Opposed

Critics on the other hand held that there should be no dealing with Victor Emanuel and Badoglio because they were, in the view of critics, not sufficiently distinguished from the old Fascist regime. A group holding official positions in the administration, in the Office of War Information, actually took, on their own responsibility, steps which had the effect of contradicting the Administration's policy and making it difficult to carry out.

Analogous situations existed not only in the enemy countries but in all the conquered countries where we are expected to rescue and occupy. In every country there are acute differences of political point of view, intensified in many cases by racial antagonisms.

If in each country we enter, we should pause to take account of these, try to settle them or take sides between them, the war will be long and costly, peace long deferred. Schemes in the Balkan countries are so many, complex, bitter and deep

Communism Is a Worry to Allies, C. P. Stewart Says

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Communism is becoming a grave worry to statesmen of the United Nations. In fact, it threatens to evolve more complications for them than they have experienced in connection with Nazi and Fascist activities.

The democracies have realized all along that they had the Nazis and Fascists to fight and that the Falangists were an undemocratic influence, though not out-and-out in arms. They also started out on the assumption that communism was as least as bad as the others, and perhaps even more violent. The democratic anti-Nazi complex never has worn off, however. It is bitterer now than ever it was before. It is ferocious but no puzzle. We know we hate the Nazi regime; there is no argument about it.

Matter of Dislike

Anti-Falangism is a mere matter of dislike; not energetic. We are anti-Fascist as the law allows.

There is a marked distinction, though. An anti-Nazi generally is an anti-German likewise. But by no means does it necessarily follow that an anti-Fascist is an anti-Italian. Indeed, with Italy's abolition of Duce Mussolini, Italians have gravitated largely into the anti-Axis classification.

The Japanese do not count in this discussion. We hate them, to be sure, but we do it independently. At last we get down to the anxiety-breeding communists.

Started Years Ago

They started, in Russia, ahead of the Fascists and Nazis, away ahead of the Falangists and they were a well-organized force all of a couple or three generations ago.

Both we and the more moderate element of the radicals eschewed them.

Then they flopped. They appeared to have become democrats. All went well—for awhile.

Our interpretation was that we had converted the Soviets. Comrade Josef Stalin seemed on the friendliest terms with us.

Then, overnight, Hitler and Stalin signed that 1939 pact. Then Germany's attack on the Russians drove the Soviets back into the pro-democratic ranks.

Unexpected Flop

Any way you look at it, it was a Russian flop. Germanyward away from the democracies. Which is exactly what would not have been expected.

The nub is—The democracies had a notion that Russia had become democratic. Obviously, it had not. It had remained communistic, or, if you please, anarchistic.

Italy does not know what the heck it wants.

Spain knows still less.

Latin America wants what the United States wants, but is not clear on the subject.

Turkey and some of our little countries are left guessing.

Japan and China are gamblers.

Not Is Placed

The so-called civilized part of the world is what we are betting on. Everything else is in a state of chaos.

China, Japan and the host of little countries are too mixed to assort themselves. The big western Allied countries are too mixed, similarly.

There are only two of them—the United States and Britain.

Plus Russia—maybe.

And I have my doubts about Russia.

It is a more skeptical realm than Germany.

Comrade Stalin may have more nerve than Hitler has.

That is the democratic worry.

That Russian situation is not to be disregarded.

The American Cornucopia

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligence

The Lady Bountiful role in which America was cast in the recent international food conference still is fresh in the public mind, to say nothing of the milk-and-honey philosophy of Mr. Wallace, under which we would among other things, see to it that everybody in the world had a quart of milk a day.

In brief, there is ample evidence that the Roosevelt administration has not only implanted in the minds of a large section of the American public the philosophy of government paternalism, but has created or is creating abroad the impression that this country will engage to underwrite the prosperity of the world.

We wonder if it ever occurs to these expansive Washington planners that we will have a hard enough row to hoe if we own our own financial accounts? We wonder if they realize the extent to which this war effort will have depleted the natural resources of America? Probably not. But whether or not they realize the fact, there is a bottom to the American cornucopia.

Glorify Those Vegetables

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER

Green and yellow vegetables, fresh from Victory Garden or market, are now at their health-building best for workers on the home front.

So key your menus to make the most of these nutrition-packed foods. Summer vegetables take on main-dish proportions by adding cheese, eggs and milk for extra protein and bone-building calcium.
As alternates or extenders for meat, they save precious red ration points and are easy on the food budget. If there are scarcities in butter and margarine, plan on

America's favorite ready-to-eat cereal will save you time, work, fuel and other foods. Enjoy Kellogg's Corn Flakes often... a delicious, nutritious wartime meal!

As a main dish for summer dinners, it requires a short baking time to give it a crusty, appetizing topper. Simmer five minutes, quarter-cup each minced onions and celery in four tablespoons bacon fat. Add two cups corn (cooked, leftover or cut from fresh ears), two-thirds cup cooked green beans and one tablespoon minced parsley. Cook slowly five minutes, add two tablespoons flour, half teaspoon salt and quarter teaspoon paprika. Blend thoroughly and stir in one and a half cups milk. After four minutes of slow cooking, add two eggs, beaten (these step up nutrition) and when mixed pour into a buttered, shallow baking dish. Cover with two-thirds cup dried bread or cracker crumbs blended with four tablespoons butter or margarine
and one-third cup grated cheese.
Bake fifteen minutes in a moderately hot oven. If preferred, this crumb covered dish can be broiled for five minutes to give the brown top coating. Enough to serve four generously.

Shiny green peppers put more flavor in some of the bland vegetables. Peppers are now coming into their own in many Victory gardens and they make interesting containers for vegetable blends. PEPPERS VICTORY are made like this: Select four peppers of moderate size.
Cut off the tops and discard the pulp. Scissors are convenient for this job. To cut down the baking time, cover the peppers with boiling water and simmer five minutes in a covered pan. Drain and rinse in cold water. (This helps keep the pepper cases firm.) Now for the filling: Melt two tablespoons butter or margarine and add three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon each paprika and celery salt. Add one cup milk and cook until a thick sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add one cup cooked cauliflower, spin-ach or carrots and one hard-cooked egg, diced. Stuff the pepper cases and cover with one-half cup ready-to-serve breakfast cereal with three tablespoons butter or margarine.

Blend. Arrange stuffed peppers in shallow pan, add one-quarter inch boiling water and bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven. To save fuel and increase dinner interest bake a Peach Cobbler or Dutch Blueberry Dessert at the same time.

VEGETABLE SOUFFLE CHAM-PION needs long, slow baking. Melt three tablespoons margarine or butter and add one-quarter cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-quarter teaspoon paprika. Add one and one-half cups milk, three eggs yolks and one-half teaspoon each of chopped onions and parsley. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thick and creamy. Add one-half cup grated cheese, one cup each of cooked carrots and peas.

Simmer five minutes or until cheese has blended. Lightly fold in three egg whites, beaten. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake an hour in pan of water in moderately slow oven—about 325 degrees F. Serve in dish in which baked.

Since PRUNE BRAN LOAF needs
the same slow cooking as souffles, I am giving you the recipe that I used last night for dinner. This bread is good, served warm with the first meal. It is moist and will keep a couple of days. Try it. Mix together one and one-half cups flour, one cup bran, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, two-thirds teaspoon salt, two tablespoons shortening, melted, one cup chopped cooked prunes, one cup buttermilk, one-half cup prune juice and one egg.
Pour the bread mixture into a loaf pan lined with waxed paper.
Bake one and one-half hours in a moderately slow oven (325). I started the bread before placing the souffle in the oven so that both foods were finished at the same time. A tossed green salad and chilled melon completed this summer dinner menu.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Law Offices of Morgan C. Harris
111 Union Street, Cumberland, Maryland

Frank B. Hynes vs. Meeda Ellen Hynes.
No. 17241 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 23rd day of July, 1923, and that the defendant abandoned and deserted the plaintiff on or about the 18th day of May, 1941, and declared her intentions to live with him no longer and such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit, 1942 that such separation is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that there were three children born unto this marriage, namely, Kathleen, aged 17;
Frank Phillip, aged 14; and Russell Lee, aged 5, all of whom are now in the custody of the plaintiff and the said plaintiff desires the permanent custody of these children; be awarded unto him, that the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and the plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the defendant and for general relief.

It is thereupon this 15th day of July,
1942, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 15th day of August, 1942, giving notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning her to appear in person or by solicitor on or before the 2nd day of September, 1942, to show cause, if any she might have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

True Copy: Test:
ROBERT JACKSON, Clerk.

"Berlin" Poster Art Exposes Nazi Weakness

A private exhibit of recent Nazi poster art, photographed and arranged out of occupied Europe by a newspaperman, was used to decorate a replica of the Berlin Anhalter railroad station in Columbia's "Appointment in Berlin," starring George Sanders and Marguerite Chapman, and now playing at the Liberty theater. The posters are an obvious attempt to give the flagging German spirits a shot in the arm.

but seem to prove that all is not well on the German home front. The violent art is the work of Ludwig Hohlwein, leading Nazi poster artist. Executed in grim, stark, simplicity, the posters reflect the facts of weakening civilian morale.

Laurel and Hardy Coming Tomorrow

Laurel and Hardy are air raid wardens! This gives them opportunity for one of the funniest adventures in their career, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Air Raid Wardens," coming tomorrow to the Embassy theater. The redoubtable comedians manage to get into all manner of trouble while blundering through their duties. In addition there is a love story. An inspiring lesson in patriotism embellishes the laugh situation as they indulge in a whip-crash cream battle with Edgar Kennedy and get involved in a nest of saboteurs and capture the gang single handed.

"Night Monster," Horror Film, Now at Garden

Much excitement is promised Garden theater fans today in the double feature attraction offered, consisting of a horror picture and a western. The horror picture is "Night Monster," starring Bela Lugosi, Ralph Morgan and Irene Hervey. The western is "Sagebrush Law," starring Tim Holt and featuring Cliff Edwards and Joan Barclay. An added attraction is another chapter of "Smilin' Jack."

"Hitler's Madman" Coming to Maryland

"Hitler's Madman," opening an engagement Monday at the Maryland theater, is the blood-stirring story of Lidice, the little Bohemian village the Nazis erased from the face of the earth in a world-shocking war incident a little more than a year ago.

While, as would be expected, shudders predominate, what with Nazis at work, the story is firmly and beautifully bound together with strong human qualities, notably in the love theme portrayed against the background of bloodshed. Alton Curtis and Patricia Morison, Curtis as Karel Vavra, a young Czech recently of the RAF, and Miss Morison, as Jarmila Hanka, his sweetheart, are brought together as the couple who conspired in the assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, the "Hangman," vividly portrayed by John Carradine. It was this assassination that heralded the shocking Nazi reprisals under Heinrich Himmler, hated Gestapo head, played by Howard Freeman.

Sgt. Domenick Is Reported Missing Off English Coast

WESTERNPORT, Aug. 6.—The War Department has notified Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Domenick, Piedmont, that their son Staff Sgt. Robert Domenick, has been missing in action off the English coast, since July 29.

Domenick enlisted in the army Aug. 3, 1942 and was inducted at Fort Hayes, Ohio, August 17 and was later transferred to St. Louis, Mo., where he volunteered for aerial gunner in the air corps. He went to Las Vegas, for six weeks of training and graduated with a sergeant's rating. He also served at Salt Lake City, Utah, Spokane and Wpah, Wash.

He next went to Blaine Field, Calif., and from there to El Paso, Texas and later to Kansas City, Mo. He flew to England and after receiving two weeks training there was sent on missions over Germany. The last letter his parents received from him was on July 26.

Domenick graduated from Piedmont high school in 1941 and prior to entering the service was employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, at Luke.

Dr. T. R. Shroy, county health officer, said that until this vacancy is filled, Miss Helen Miller will be in Grantsville every Thursday from 10 a. m. until noon to confer with those who wish to consult her. She will be in the nurse's office, in the home of Mrs. Ella Keller.

Water Supply Improves

The town's water supply was expected to be much improved after last night's downpour, but it still remained at the serious stage, city officials said. The water committee was authorized to arrange for the drilling of an additional well.

Over two feet of water in the new reservoir, all city lines were full this morning. The second reservoir is at the twelve foot mark, the minimum fire reserve, or about 125,000 gallons, to be used only in case of a serious fire.

In January he was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight and with the Airman's Medal for the number of combat hours to his credit.

Sgt. Patrick has been on a three months' furlough since his return to the states after a visit at his home he was sent to Salt Lake City, Utah, and Walla Walla, Wash. He is now en route from the latter city for another two weeks' visit here.

Stock List Declines Slightly In Day Marked by Dull Trading

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Stock prices declined generally today but selling lacked urgency and the market was only a little more active than Thursday.

Fractional losses were widespread and a few leaders fell back more than a point. Volume for the full five hours amounted to 614,920 shares against 541,630 yesterday.

Paramount Pictures was ahead for a while on a six-months term of $1.97 a share against $1.88 in the 1942 period but closed 1/8 lower at 25.

American Telephone found little support and lost 2 1/2, closing at 152 1/2. Other favorites down a point or so included Chrysler, off 1 1/2; Santa Fe, off 1 1/2; United Aircraft, off 1, and Owens-Illinois off 1 1/2.

The Associated Press index of 60 stocks dropped 4 of a point to 49.1.

Lagging most of the day, and behind at the close were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Co., New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Westinghouse, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Du Pont and Union Carbide.

Curb trends also were toward lower levels. In arrears at the last were Arkansas Natural Gas "A", Electric Bond Share, Phoenix Securities and Cities Service. Dealings here totaled 151,430 shares compared with 145,025 Thursday.

The bond market lost a little more ground on the average as selling pressure increased in the secondary rail groups and buying incentives were scarce elsewhere.

Trading remained on a routine basis with sales at $6,924,000 compared with $6,730,600 on Thursday.

B. and O. Engine Hits Automobile On Crossing Here

Occupants Jump to Safety; Watchman Blames Another Car for Mishap

Forced to stop on the Frederick street crossing when another automobile failed to stop for a Henderson Avenue "stop" sign, the car operated by Patsy Marrocco, 149 Bedford street, manager of George Street Cleaners, was damaged when it was struck by an eastbound freight locomotive at 6:35 p. m. yesterday.

Marrocco and his son, Anthony, were riding in the car but jumped from it before it was struck by the locomotive and shoved about sixteen feet.

Ernest Kesler, 8 Pioneer place, the crossing watchman, said he permitted Marrocco to cross the tracks because the train was approaching slowly and still was a block away.

Marrocco was driving north and had almost crossed the tracks when another machine, headed west, failed to stop for the Henderson Avenue stop sign and turned sharply to the left in front of Marrocco's car, according to Kesler.

To avoid crashing against the car, Marrocco stopped abruptly on the tracks. As the locomotive came closer to the machine he and his son jumped out. The car, however, failed to stop, Kesler said, and proceeded south on Frederick street.

The car was damaged about the left side.

There was no police investigation.

Court attaches said Lofton's aged mother, who lives in a back apartment of Frost's home, went to Mineral county with her son. Lofton returned here yesterday with his mother. When they reached her home they found the back door locked and Lofton forced the door to enter.

Tin Can Collection Gets Flying Start

13 Tons Placed in Gondola Car; Two-Day Drive Ends Today

Approximately thirteen tons of old tin cans were dumped into a gondola car on the siding in the rear of the Algonquin hotel yesterday at the close of the first of two days set aside by the scrap salvage committee for the collection.

It is estimated that each car has a capacity of sixteen tons and the city garbage trucks are expected to collect more than enough to fill the car today when they visit the area south of Greene street, Baltimore street and Baltimore avenue, including the south sides of these streets.

Yesterday's collection included about a ton of tin from Bowling Green and LaVale and contributions from the local Coca Cola plant and the breweries.

"We collected more cans on the first day than we really expected to pick up," R. Emmett Dougherty, garbage contractor, remarked last evening.

In fact, Dougherty stated that more tin was collected yesterday than was shipped out in the last two-day drive in Cumberland.

Householders are urged to properly prepare the cans and place them on the curb before 9 o'clock this morning.

Coxswain Adams Rode Boat Carrying TNT In Sicily Invasion

Seaman First Class James Franklin Adams, 20, son of John T. Adams, Baltimore and Ohio railroad brakeman, of 209 Hay street, was aboard an assault transport with the United States amphibious forces when the Allies invaded Sicily, according to an Associated Press story written by John A. Moroso III.

Young Adams was one of the boys of the "X" group—they were the bad boys, the lads who couldn't obey or wouldn't learn regulations and discipline back in the days when they were in the states. When the amphibious force was being formed, men got into the "X" group for being rough and tough.

When the navy called for volunteers to man the landing boats—coastguards, boat hooks, engineers and stern men—the rough and tough guys answered and Franklin was coxswain of one of these boats in which the men while under terrific enemy fire carried on without sleep or food.

A navy man for a year, Adams, who was employed in a butcher shop before joining up, described his boat trip as "just a ride." He said he was most afraid when enemy planes strafed his boat while it was carrying TNT.
